

Are you interested in working outdoors? Do you have knowledge of plants, wildlife, soils or a related field? Are you a recent graduate or do you need experience for your resume?

The Allegheny National Forest is hiring for the 2009 summer field season. The ANF is located in northwestern Pennsylvania and boasts over 517,000 acres of wooded hills and valleys, rivers and cold-water streams and a diversity of wildlife.

Depending on their area of interest, employees will work in teams or independently and gain experience in resource management, land planning, mapping and GIS, species identification and more. These are temporary, full-time positions which typically last March-October (flexible). Pay range is $12-16/hour and is based on experience.

Employment opportunities are available in the following areas:

- Archaeology
- Botany
- Forestry
- GIS
- Recreation
- Silviculture
- Transportation engineering
- Wildlife

Positions will be filled as qualified candidates become available. For this reason, we strongly encourage you to apply prior to February in order to be considered.
