

SOIL AND WATER FOR EVERY FARM

Keyline™ Design

Develop your property to its full potential

Increase production, drought-proof, create soil, and sequester carbon

Intensive hands-on workshop offered by the

Global Environmental Management Education Center (GEM)

Sept. 24-25, 2007

with Darren Doherty, Australian Keyline™ designer, and Permaculture designer and instructor

Course includes on-site demonstration of the Yeomans plow.

Course venue: Moondance Meadows, a community supported agriculture farm

Course fee: $250

Registration deadline: Sept. 20

Registration form on reverse

For more information

see the GEM website

gem.uwsp.edu

and click on the Keyline™ design box

Article on Keyline™ design:

<http://www.yeomansplow.com.au/basis-of-keyline.htm>

College
of Natural Resources

Keyline Design workshop registration

To reserve your place in this course, complete the following information and send the registration form along with course registration fee of $250 to:

Global Environmental Management Education Center, College of Natural Resources, University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point, 800 Reserve Street, Stevens Point, WI 54481

Registration with payment must be received by Sept. 1.

Name: _____

Address: _____

Daytime Phone: _____

Evening Phone: _____

How did you hear about the GEM Keyline™ design course? _____

Email: _____