Fundraising Dinner to Benefit
UWSP College of Natural Resources Endowment Fund

A TRIBUTE TO DAN TRAINER

Celebrating a Legacy in Conservation Education

Thank you for participating in this celebration of who we are and what we do. UWSP College of Natural Resources is the nation's largest and premier undergraduate program in natural resources. Our faculty and staff provide knowledge and practical, hands-on training for the resource managers and leaders of tomorrow. Our alumni -- nearly 10,000 strong -- live and work throughout Wisconsin and the world to maintain a secure and healthy natural resource base.

This event raises funds for the CNR Endowment Fund in the UWSP Foundation, a permanent pool of money that generates interest to support areas of greatest need within the College. Last year the Fund supported a broad spectrum of needs that impacted a large cross section of our student body, including student attendance at professional conferences, events like the CNR Student Research Symposium and CNR Rendezvous awards banquet, and needed equipment for CNR labs and field stations. With declining support from state tax dollars, this Fund is crucial if we are to maintain our reputation as the "best".

A TRIBUTE TO DAN TRAINER

This 2007 CNR Fall Migration event honors the life and career of Daniel O. Trainer, Dean Emeritus of the College of Natural Resources.

Dr. Trainer, who served as Dean from 1971 to 1988, has continued to serve the College, the University, the local community, and numerous conservation efforts in many ways during his retirement.

Trainer's impact on the CNR was remarkable. Under his leadership, the College gained excellent field training facilities in Treehaven, Central Wisconsin Environmental Center (now "Station") and Schmeeckle Reserve. Dan's participatory leadership style brought added enthusiasm to the faculty. The resulting growth of the CNR during the 1970s and early 1980s was unprecedented.

Today, the CNR enjoys an international reputation and is the nation's largest undergraduate program in natural resources, thanks in large part to Trainer's leadership. Many who were students while Dan was Dean remember and appreciate his contributions to their own lives and to a program that has had an immense impact on resource management throughout the country. The audience at today's banquet is filled with many of those alumni. They are joined by hundreds of other friends and family members who have gathered to pay tribute.

Stevens Point journalist and civic leader Jim Schuh summarized Dan's impact in this way, "All of us here today need to take a few moments to reflect on our good fortune for having known and interacted with this exceptional and generous leader. For most of us, such an opportunity may come but once in a lifetime." ■
