9:30-10:50 am	PERCUSSION WORKSHOP - DUC 378
Joan Wiese Johannes will demonstrate how percussion instruments can be used to create pleasing rhythms when writing and how to use music to accompany writing. After a short demonstration of how she combines poetry and her original music for the Native American flute, participants will get a chance to try out the different instruments and use them to enhance their own writing. Joan was a beloved Language Arts teacher at Lincoln High School in Wisconsin Rapids and has won The Chisholm Award for the exemplary teaching of English and a Kohl Fellowship. Lincoln High School Teacher of the Year for 2003 and Wisconsin Secondary Teacher of the Year in 1993, she has been publishing poetry for over twenty years and music for five. She was also awarded a silver medallion from Carlos Nakai for publishing Native American flute/vocal duets and has released a duet CD, Heyoalinda, and presented flute/poetry workshops for Wisconsin flute circles and for the Pacific NW Flute Gathering in Washington.

9:30-11 a.m.	DUC Theatre
“Open Mike”		The editor of Barney Street and other UWSP writers will read from their writing, after which high school students are invited to read from theirs.
