Position Summary

The University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point College of Natural Resources (CNR) and the University of Wisconsin Division of Extension are seeking to fill a joint full time (12 month) tenure track position. This faculty appointment will be in the CNR’s Fisheries and Water Resources Discipline and in Extension’s Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources with responsibilities for undergraduate teaching (25%) in the CNR and outreach education (75%) for Extension through the CNR’s Center for Watershed Science and Education (CWSE). The faculty member will be responsible for six credits annually of undergraduate courses in the CNR focused on the groundwater quantity and quality, and for Extension outreach and applied research in groundwater for Wisconsin’s citizens, agencies, and nongovernmental organizations. The successful candidate will develop client audiences for their research and work with Extension faculty and staff across the state. As a CNR faculty member, the successful candidate will report directly to the Dean of the CNR and provide service to the college.

Required Qualifications

- Completed a Ph.D. in hydrology, hydrogeology or an allied field by the time of appointment.
- Academic preparation and research interests that includes management of groundwater quantity and/or quality.
- The ability to communicate technical information to lay audiences.
Preferred Qualifications
- At least 3 years post-graduate experience in a water resource-related field.
- Experience teaching undergraduate students.
- Experience with applied groundwater flow modeling.
- Grant writing and project management experience.

How To Apply
