Applying innovative thinking and actions to ensure continuous improvement in our halls and programs

Encouraging the holistic development of individuals in their personal and professional endeavors
Dear Prospective Colleague,

On behalf of the staff in the department of Residential Living, I want to thank you for expressing an interest in the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point. As you explore what will become the beginning of your new journey, we hope this guide will provide you information as to why Stevens Point is home.

By joining the team, you will unlock a door that will offer you a world of exciting new experiences, and opportunities with your career. We take pride in giving our Residence Hall Directors a great deal of freedom to work on programming and professional development. We also foster meaningful connections with other departments on campus to engage, learn and grow.

UW-Stevens Point is unlike any university that you will experience in your life. The campus and town are full of energy and excitement.

If you decide UWSP is for you, you will be joining a community that will encourage, support, challenge, and inspire you.

If UWSP seems like it could be home for you, we welcome you to join us through the application process and find out what it means to be a Pointer!

Sincerely,

Brian G. Faust

I chose UWSP because of the sense of community that it has. The minute that I stepped foot on campus, I felt welcomed and like I belonged here. However, Residential Living has really given me a sense of purpose. All across the department, it is such a tightknit community, and everyone supports each other. The professional staff are extremely supportive of all the students, and truly know how to help make UWSP feel like home.

After high school, I was excited to go to school at Point because of how students can have personal connections with professors. Also, because the outdoors is literally outside our backdoor.
Hello! My name is Becky (she/her/hers) and I am the Baldwin Hall Director. I am a new professional, finishing my master’s degree in college student affairs this last year. While job searching for my first post grad position, I always had UWSP in mind. The camaraderie of the Hall Director team and support I have received made for a perfect fit. I love that my supervisor and others encourage new ideas and opportunities for reflection. It’s clear that the students are passionate about learning, sustainability, and planning for their future, which makes every day unique. Residential Living fosters an environment of learning, nurturing, and holistic development for students and professionals alike.
