COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This course will investigate the development of North American and U.S. history from the establishment of European colonies in the Americas to the end of the Civil War Era. We will break down these centuries into six shorter eras: Colonial America, the American Revolution, the Early Republic, the Age of Jackson, Antebellum America, and the Civil War Era. Each of these units will include several lectures in which I will make general arguments (with specific examples) to illustrate and identify the significance of the period.

COURSE OBJECTIVES and LEARNING OUTCOMES:

This course meets the General Education Program requirements for Historical Perspectives and U.S. Diversity. By the end of this course, you will be able to:

1. Use primary sources as evidence to answer questions about historical change.
2. Describe differences among interpretations of colonial America and early United States history.
3. Analyze institutional and cultural change in American society.
4. Describe how people and institutions in the United States have constructed diverse identities and cultures.
5. Explain how individuals in the United States have responded to the experience of discrimination and inequality.
6. Demonstrate understanding of and empathetic insight about diverse cultural perspectives in the United States.

GRADING/EVALUATION:

Grades in this course will consist of two exams, two book précis, primary source analyses (reaction papers), and attendance. All assignments, including exams, will be submitted on Canvas. Your final grade will be determined as follows:

Two exams: 50 %

Short papers (book précis): 25%

Primary source reaction papers: 15%.

Attendance: 10%

Grading scale: (percentages)

A = 93-100

C+ = 77-79

D- = 60-62

A- = 90-92

C = 73-76

F = 0-59

B+ = 87-89

C- = 70-72

B = 83-86

D+ = 67-69

B- = 80-82

D = 63-66

ASSIGNMENTS/RESPONSIBILITIES:

Attendance policy: First and foremost, students are expected to attend class. I will take attendance at every meeting. You are granted 3 unexcused absences. Every unexcused absence after that will result in a 2-point penalty in your final grade. For example, if you miss 5 classes (which is 2.5 weeks out of a 15-week class), that will result in a 4-point penalty in your final average. In general, I do not grant excused absences except in cases of a documented medical situation or a documented campus-approved event (field trips, athletic events). Students who miss a class are responsible for that class's content and must make their own effort to contact a peer in class to obtain any notes or other materials from the missed class.

Reading: I encourage you to complete all of the reading assignments in the Roark textbook. This reading is assigned to provide a framework for the material covered in class lectures. Reading the material before coming to class will make the lectures much more beneficial to you. You should read both the Fischer and McLaurin monographs carefully and critically.

Précis: You must write brief analytical reviews of both the Fischer and McLaurin books. I will provide a template and guide for writing these papers on the course Canvas site.

Exams: We will have a midterm and final exam. Both exams will be in multiple choice (an in-class portion) and essay (online in Canvas) format. The final exam will not be cumulative (it will only cover the material from the second half of the course).

Reaction papers: These assignments are designed to expose you to primary sources and the kind of evidence that historians use to understand historical context and change. Each reaction paper will be taken online in Canvas.

Major due dates:

Monday, October 10: Paul Revere's Ride précis due

Wednesday, October 26: Midterm Exam

Personal Responsibility:

On occasion, students in this course have used the work of others rather than doing it themselves. Cheating also includes giving your work to others. I take disciplinary action through Student Affairs against such students.

Cheating is a serious offense against honest students.

I direct you to <http://www.uwsp.edu/centers/rights>. See Chapter 14, Student Academic Standards and Disciplinary Procedures, pages 5 -10, for the disciplinary possibilities if you are caught cheating.

Equity of Educational Access:

UWSP is committed to providing reasonable and appropriate accommodations to students with disabilities and temporary impairments. If you have a disability or acquire a condition during the semester where you need assistance, please contact the Disability and Assistive Technology Center on the 6th floor of Albertson Hall (library) as soon as possible. DATC can be reached at 715-346-3365 or DATC@uwsp.edu.
