OUR MISSION

The Department of Housing and Residence Life strives to develop a community of well-rounded Pointers through quality living environments, intentional learning experiences, and dynamic interpersonal relationships.

INDIGENOUS LAND ACKNOWLEDGMENT STATEMENT

With profound reflection, we acknowledge that the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point exists upon land inhabited by the indigenous people of this area, including but not limited to, the Menominee, Ho-Chunk, Ojibwe, Potawatomi, and the many other nations and groups that predate colonial borders.

While this state institution has a rich history of its own, for countless generations, these lands were home to this diverse group of Native American people. Beginning with colonization and continuing for centuries, Native American people were forcibly removed from their home to unfamiliar and inhospitable lands. This brought sickness, trauma, and loss in many forms, including the mass grave site of indigenous people that our campus sits upon. In reverence to the truth, we acknowledge this occurred.

We recognize the responsibility of the university to support Native people, communities—and world views—so all might benefit from their teachings and hard-fought lessons. We also recognize that the generations of Native American communities, their cultures, and their knowledge systems shaped the land in a sustainable way that allows us to continue to enjoy its gifts today. For this, we are truly grateful.

Together we hope to find ways to move forward while acknowledging and respecting this history. Although words cannot convey the weight of the injustices wrought upon all indigenous peoples of Turtle Island, the proof of their resilience is brought into the light by the knowledge that they have been, are, and always will be a part of this institution and the land we live on. In partnership with the Native American Center, we explore durable ways of recognizing, supporting, and advocating for the sovereignty of all tribal nations and their citizens. We commit to work together to honor the past, be intentional in the present, and to build our future with truth.

Welcome to the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point Housing and Residence Life

On behalf of myself and the entire Housing and Residence Life team, I would like to thank you for your interest in the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point. We hope you find these resources valuable as you navigate significant decisions in your life.

By joining our department, you will begin a chapter of new experiences and career opportunities. We take pride in granting our residence hall directors considerable autonomy in programming and professional development. Additionally, we actively foster meaningful connections with other campus departments to encourage engagement, learning, and personal growth.

UW-Stevens Point offers a unique university experience unlike any other you will encounter in your life. The campus and the town have a rich history in natural resources, various cultural traditions, strong community pride, and the creative arts. If you choose UWSP, you will become part of a community that motivates, supports, challenges, and inspires each other and our students.

If UW-Stevens Point feels like it could be the right fit for you, we encourage you to reach out for more information and to learn about what it means to be a Pointer!

Sincerely,

Brian G. Faust
