

SUSTAINABLE AND RESILIENT COMMUNITIES

College of Letters and Science
University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point

RESILIENCE PLANNING AND PUBLIC POLICY

OCTOBER 10, 2023

Marissa Aho, AICP

Director, Executive Climate
Office of King County, Washington

How can resilience planning and public policy be designed for the greatest impact? Learn from a three-time Chief Resilience Officer on frameworks that can be applied to prioritize climate action and climate equity for any community. Explore lessons learned on the quest to increase preparedness, mitigation, adaptation and recovery to climate change and other major events, prioritizing our most vulnerable people, places, and systems.

SERIES KICK-OFF!

Portage County Public Library - Pinery Room
6:30 p.m.

Sponsor:

Tommy G. Thompson Center on Public Leadership
UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON

Host:

The Center for the Small City
College of Letters and Science
University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point

Livestream will be available.
Scan QR code to join!

The series is hosted by the UW-Stevens Point Department of Geography and Geology and the Center for the Small City in the School of Behavioral and Social Sciences.

Future Series Dates:

Feb. 6, 2024

March 12, 2024

April 9, 2024